

Swati Agrawal is CEO of Firmseek, a national company providing branding, strategy, and web marketing solutions to law firms and other organizations around the country. Agrawal co-founded Firmseek in 1999. Prior to Firmseek, she worked as a litigation attorney.

As an alumnus of MindShare, an invitation-only program, she leads one of the most promising high-tech companies in the DC area. She currently serves on the Yale Law School Association Executive Committee.

Agrawal has a B.A. in Economics from the University of Michigan and graduated from Yale Law School. While at Yale, she was awarded the Florida Supreme Court's Outstanding Pro Bono Representation Award for work on behalf of Cuban refugees detained on Guantanamo Bay. Agrawal is focused on helping professional service companies improve their competitive positioning and grow market share through enterprise-based websites.